

As a retro computer collector, you're always looking to add more to your collection. Unfortunately for you, you're not alone. Among the competition there is a businessman who only wants the computers to resell on eBay for inflated prices. You must be swift and cunning to outmaneuver him while also avoiding your angry wife who wants you to "sell your junk."

Next you'll need to repair the computers by acquiring the necessary parts from a old repair shop. Large, territorial rats will not make that process easy.

Finally, the computers will need your protection from the harmful yellowing effects of the sun. It's a good thing you brought your umbrella!

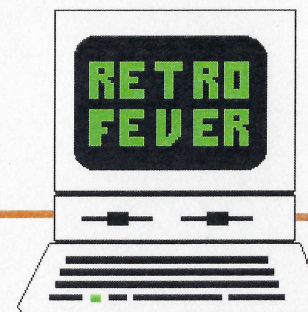

Only the most dauntless collector will succeed in providing temporary relief to their RETRO FEVER!

Playing the Game

Level 1: Recycling Center

Grab the computers off the conveyor belts before the eBay reseller gets them or they burn in the furnace. Grab 10 of them to win the level. Also, avoid your tenacious wife or she'll make you get rid of your trove. You can distract both of them with some money.

Level 2: Repair Shop

Some of your computers will need repairs. Identify which parts you'll need by standing next to a computer. Retrieve the correct parts from the barrels and return to the computer to repair them. Stay clear of the lab rats.

Level 3: Roadside

Protect your computers from the sun's rays by detracting their beams with your umbrella. Once the sun sets to the west, the computers will be safe. In the mean time, avoid oncoming traffic and don't get caught by your wife!
